

INSECT'S STING KILLS YOUNG NATIVE

Large Black Spider Supposed To Have Given
Fatal Bite.

Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 28.—Physicians are still puzzling over the case of Antonio Gamaz, a native boy whose parents brought his body here from Agua Fria, where his death occurred. The exact cause of death is unknown, but it is thought that it was caused by the bite or sting of a poisonous insect. There had been no medical attendance and an inquest was held yesterday afternoon before Acting Coroner Johnstone. The father of the boy thought that death had resulted from a thorn in the foot, but that is only conjecture and the theory is not borne out by the circumstances.

The father is engaged in clearing a tract of ground along the Agua Fria three miles north of the Moore place. A week ago the child was playing about the camp and suddenly he gave a cry of pain. He ran to his mother, who found a slight wound in the bottom of the foot. The boy was quite sick and for a day and a half ate nothing. Although there was no noticeable swelling of the foot, the wound became inflamed and vesicular in appearance. It was opened in a search for the supposed thorn, but nothing was found. The flesh about the wound sloughed off, but there was no other manifestation.

Death Was Sudden.
In a couple of days the child recovered his appetite, slept well and did not complain of pain. Two days ago he became feverish and refused to eat. When death came it was without a warning.

There was an entire absence of signs of lockjaw, which usually accompanies a severe wound by a thorn, nail or puncture of the hand or foot and there were none of the symptoms which follow the sting of a scorpion or the more common insects. There is a species of black spider, frequently called the "trap door" spider, almost as large as a tarantula, but not woolly like the tarantula, whose bite the Mexicans regard as certainly fatal. There is no violent pain like that which follows the bite of the tarantula, the sting of the scorpion or the poisonous ant or the bite of the rattlesnake. The patient lingers for a week, sometimes longer, and then the poison seems to act suddenly on the heart.

A few days ago the 17-year-old son of Jules Gower was bitten by one of these spiders, which was killed at the time. The young man lingered for a week and during all that time his condition excited no alarm.

CARRIZOZO WANTS LIVE CAPITALISTS

Town Needs Some One With Money
To Erect Homes for Newcomers

Who Are Putting In.
Carrizozo, N. M., Oct. 28.—(Special)—Carrizozo needs a capitalist who will erect residence houses for the many wanting to rent in this place. The town is being handicapped for want of desirable houses. Those that are now being constructed are engaged far ahead.

The Capitalists' resumed Monday after having been closed down on account of a scarlet fever scare. The cases are all reported as recovered and no danger of an epidemic.

A United States recruiting station has been opened here. The headquarters are in the bank building. Recruiting Officer E. Babcock is in charge.

The new Baptist church is now completed. The present structure is only a temporary building, which will serve for the next year or two. Rev. R. H. Pope has been the minister in charge up to this time, but arrangements will be made for a settled pastor.

E. R. Keeley and son, Edward, are erecting a feed store and transfer barn and will soon be ready for business.

T. H. Lindsay, of Chicago, and W. B. Higby, of Dalhart, Texas, are in the city. These gentlemen are associated with W. A. McVerns in the Calumet mine.

Rev. John A. and Joseph Land, father and son, preached in this city last Sunday. The ministers are from Mountainair, N. M., where they have located homesteads.

W. N. Kennedy, living three miles south of town, has on exhibition at the Carrizozo Townsite company's office samples of the products of his farm, all of which were grown without irrigation. Among the exhibits are pumpkins weighing 60 pounds, and some of the finest Indian corn and sorghum cane ever seen anywhere.

S.S.S. FORTY YEARS OF CURES
Long experience and thorough testing have proven S. S. S. to be the King of blood purifiers and the greatest of all tonics. For nearly half a century S. S. S. has been used in the treatment of blood and skin diseases of every character, and so satisfactory have been the results that it is now the best known and most widely used blood medicine on the market. S. S. S. attracted attention as soon as it was placed on the market by curing promptly those diseases for which it was recommended, and we have so jealously guarded its first good reputation, by keeping it up to its standard in manufacture, that it now has the unequalled and pleasing record of "Forty Years Of Cures." For Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Sores and Ulcers, Malaria, Skin Diseases, Contagious Blood Poison, and all other diseases due to an impure or poisoned condition of the blood, there is nothing that equals S. S. S. It counteracts and removes the germs and poisons, cleanses the system of all unhealthy matter, cures the trouble permanently, and restores strong, robust health. Where the blood is weak or anaemic and unable to nourish the system as it should, S. S. S. supplies it with the needed properties, and being a bracing, invigorating tonic it builds up the entire system. It goes to the very bottom of all blood disorders, and in this way reaches deep-seated and inherited cases on which the ordinary sarsaparillas and tonics have little or no effect. Not only is S. S. S. certain in its results, but it is an absolutely safe medicine. It enjoys the distinction of being the only blood medicine on the market that is guaranteed purely vegetable. If you are in need of a blood remedy begin the use of S. S. S., the medicine that has proven its worth by its record of forty years of cures. Book on the blood and any medical advice you wish. No charge for either.

FOUL PLAY MAY IF COURT DESOLVES STANDARD HAVE CAUSED DEATH

Man Found Beneath Bridge
At Globe Dies In Peculiar Manner.

Globe, Ariz., Oct. 28.—Was George W. Holstine, who died in the county hospital yesterday, a victim of foul play?

That is a question that is perplexing the police and sheriff's departments and one which may be answered by a coroner's jury, which will investigate the death of the man under the direction of Judge Thomas acting as coroner. The jury has been summoned to meet at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Holstine was found in an unconscious condition under the bridge near the Old Dominion smelter about 9 o'clock Sunday morning. It was thought at the time that he was a drunken stupor and he was removed to the Moody boarding house in North Globe, where he has been stopping since in the city. He failed to rally in a reasonable time, and a guest at the house, volunteered to take care of him. He showed no signs of improvement and a physician was summoned, who stated that alcoholism was his chief trouble. Today Holstine being without money or local relatives, was taken to the county hospital, where he died about 9 o'clock without regaining consciousness. The body was at once removed to the morgue of the Jones undertaking company.

Hurt in Fight.
When Holstine's death was announced yesterday some facts concerning the causes leading up to his demise were uncovered. Witnesses, whose names are said to be in the possession of the officers, state that Holstine had a fight with some party, whose identity is unknown, on the bridge under which his unconscious body was found. In the mixup both men fell from the bridge, but the latter clung to him and both went over together. People who witnessed the fall did not realize that Holstine had been injured and he was discovered purely by chance by others who passed over the bridge an hour or so later. The dead man's face is lacerated and bruised and the right eye is badly swollen, indicating that he received severe treatment at the hands of his adversary.

NEW MEXICO COWBOY INJURED IN TEXAS

El Paso, Oct. 28.—Dick Reeder, a cowboy from Earliman, N. M., sustained injuries from which he may not recover at Cowboy park, during the roping contests yesterday afternoon.

He was the second roper on the program, and had succeeded in roping a particularly wild steer, when his horse was thrown, causing him to strike his head with such violence that he was picked up unconscious. After ineffectual efforts to revive him at the park, he was removed to Providence hospital.

He was reported as being in a critical condition last night, and only semi-conscious. The injury is to the back of the head. Dr. Vance attended him.

Two Legal Giants in Oil Octopus Case: Frank B. Kellogg on Left, and John G. Milburn.

New York, Oct. 28.—The taking of testimony in the federal government suit to the Standard Oil Co. has been suspended for a short time to give the great lawyers who are fighting tooth and nail on each side a chance to breathe and rest up for a fresh start.

It is announced that Frank B. Kellogg and ex-District Attorney Morrison of Chicago, who represent the government, will spend the time in studying the mass of testimony and records produced during the last month and in planning a new attack on the octopus. The task confronting them is monumental, for while previous onslaughts developed practically nothing, the present investigation has turned the Standard inside out. A great mass of figures and records have been produced in response to Kellogg's demands, and he and Morrison will long be kept busy in getting a thorough understanding of them.

John G. Milburn, Morris Rosenthal and "Immunity Bath" Miller are the great legal trio charged with the responsibility of saving the life of the Standard. It is an interesting fact that the octopus relies upon talent from the provinces in the great crisis. Milburn, while he is a New Yorker now, is a recent arrival from Buffalo. Miller and Rosenthal are from Chicago.

For the lawyers of both sides victory in this case means lasting renown, not to mention fees, and they will govern themselves accordingly. In view of the probability that the court will order the dissolution of this greatest trust in the world's history, the great question is being asked: "What will then become of the Standard Oil Co.?"

Just how the court would bring about the dissolution of $500,000,000 worth of property scattered in all parts of the world is a puzzle. A receiver or trustees might be appointed for the work, or the Standard officials might be ordered to bring about the dissolution within a certain time. However accomplished, it would be a tremendous undertaking. Persistent reports have been in circulation that the Standard has evolved a plan to retain its organization in substantially the present form, even if it should lose this suit. Some methods heretofore practiced, it is said, might have to be changed, but the various properties would be legally continued under one management.
